Functional Medicine seeks to identify and address the root causes of illness. This approach views the body as one integrated system, not a collection of independent organs or symptoms. The focus is on drilling down to the root cause of what is causing the symptoms and making a change. The symptoms may be supported naturally to bring temporary relief while making a metabolic change in the body to bring long term relief without the use of drugs. There are various methods employed to determine root cause including blood work, EEG, other in house neurological, physical assessments and metabolic testing.
